Designed by Renowned Independent Designer Lii

Lii, a senior military outdoor expert, founded his backpack brand Lii Gear in 2014. Blending innovation with originality, he redefines functionality through thoughtful material selection and refined craftsmanship – delivering practical, comfortable carrying solutions.

The SLB08 Modular Commuting Sling Bag is built for short commutes, urban walk, and travel backup. It packs remarkable versatility and expandability in its compact and lightweight body, perfect for commuting, EDC gear organization, or serving as a stylish accessory.

Compact Yet Powerful

Built to Expand

With a 2L (122 cu in) capacity, it easily accommodates daily essentials such as phones, power banks and earbuds, with an internal divider design for effortless organization and quick access.

The bag features multiple modular expansion points for flexible, limitless storage.

Front pocket with a loop surface for attaching morale patches or storing EDC gear

Clear open-top pocket with loop surfaces both inside and out, allowing easy identification and quick access

Four buckle attachment points allow the bag to be attached to other bags with compatible buckles

Dual See-Through Compartments

Breathable honeycomb mesh compartment, keeping documents such as passports and boarding passes visible at a glance

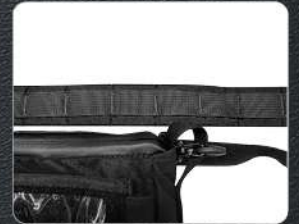

Limitless Expansion Capability

The bag features MOLLE webbing system on two sides, the bottom, and the strap, allowing you to attach small pouches, mosquito repellents, signal lights, flashlights and more, as well as secure lightweight items like compact umbrellas or light jackets with elastic cords.

* The sample items or expansion modules are for display purposes only and are sold separately.

Lightweight & Foldable

Weighing only 125g (0.3 lbs), the soft, foldable bag is easy to pack into a main backpack or serves as a travel backup. Ready to use upon arrival, it's ideal for daily outings or unexpected trips.
